The amendment immediately in order was the provision of the House that these extra Naior and Brigadier with Mexico, with a pending amendment of Mr. Huntington so modifying the discretion of the President in the ultimate discharge of these officers, that instead of its being unlimited as provided by the House, it shall be

HUNTINGTON followed on the same side.

Dis was understood to advocate the leaving the fion of discharge of these officers to the future actif the government.

I M Clastrow passed from a general discussion of mendment to a review of the causes and provocate the Mexican war, and to certain strictures upon conduct of the Executive government in its miniscorrespondence with Mexico, of unrighteously oking this collision between the two countries. He took up the declaration made by Mr. Allen at the most of the seasion in the discussion of the Oregon ion, that it was necessary to prepare the hearts of copie for war, and commented with considerable it you the war sentiments of the Chairman on Fo-Relations.

Mr. ALLEY rejoined in defence of the administration in its conduct toward Mexico, and its defence of himself and its declarations. The movements of the army of the Chairman of the South ware made with a view of preventing twar, by restraining the Maxican to their own terisory, in the presence of the army of the United States. will state from what other quarter he expects war besides Mexico.

Mr. Allian was of the opinion that there was a probability of a war with England, and it might be in force after the termination of the war with Mexico: in which case, these officers would have to be disbanded at the very time their services were most required under the provisions of the bill. We knew not what might turn up. Events were hurrying us along. The war with Mexico was not anticipated until within sixty hours of the declaration.

Mr. Aschen moved to strike out the provision providing for the selection of the officers to be retained, leaving that matter to the action of Congress.
Mr. But appear the necessity should occur in the recess in oberlience to the law. I am opposed to the whole amendment of the House.
With some further conversation between Messrs.
Archer and Dix, the entire amendment of the House giving the Fresident the discretion without regard to date of commission, to discharge at the end of the war, the extra number of the rank of these hereby appointed, was rejected 12 to 39.
So the authority for the discharge of these ex'ra generals is by the amendment to be retained in the hands of Congress.
The vote on the amendment of the House for four extra Asjutant Generals, was reconsidered, and the provision agreed to.

The vote on the amendment of the House for four extra Adjutant Generals, was reconsidered, and the provision agreed to.

The question was next upon agreeing to the House amendment, reducing the Major Generals extra from the Benale provision of two down to one, and of Brigadiers from four to two.

And the vote was reconsidered by which this amendment was yesterday rejected, and the amendment was thus brought again before the Senale.

3fr. Wastcorr was upposed to the two Majar Generals extra and the four Brigadiers, as passed by the Senate, and in layor of the House amendment reducing the number one half. He had objected to the Senate's number yesterday, simply because it was urged by the Senator from New York (srr. Dix) on the naked declaration that it was the bill of the administration. Mr. W. here tor from New York (Str. Dix) on the naked declaration that it was the bill of the administration. Mr. W. here read from a manue of the senate an extract from a law of Parliament of 1753 by which it was made a funcional process. The provider in many member to report any opinion of the king upon any subject, with a view of influencing the votes of other members. [Lauguer] Now if he (sir W.) were satisfied upon any measure like this that the administration were in revor of a particular provision, he would be strongly incline to go for it from the fact of the superior means of information with the Executive government upon the subject. But what he objected to was the manner in which this information of the necessity for two more Major Generals and four Brigadiers had been communicated to the Seaate. He was opposed to these underground motions. He would not sanction anything they might recommend from the Executive unless it was put down in black and white; and inasmuch as the President hat made no communication in this instance he was opposed to the provision of the Senate. We had had no communication from the Executive unless it was put down in black and white; and inasmuch as the President hat made no communication in this instance he was opposed to the provision of the Senate. We had had no communication from the Executive only a verbal authority from one of his subordinates. He was, therefore, opposed to the impresse beyond the House amendment, and asked for the ayes and noce.

Mr. Dix on behalf of the Military Committee, said the bill was framed, after a full consultation with the War Department. These additions to the general officers, are deemed by the department essential, to bring the war to a successful and speedy termination. He daid not say so to influence the vote of any member on this floor; but simply to present to the Senate, the authority upon which the necessity of these additions to the army was founded.

Mr. Hannegax desired to ask a single question of the

which the necessity of these additions to the army was founded.

Mr. Hannegan desired to ask a single question of the Senator from New York. Is there any message from the President or Secretary of War before the Senate, asking for this increase?

Mr. Dir.—There is not, sir.

Mr. Hannegan.—Nothing but a mere verbal communication. If the President or Secretary of War desire any increase of the army, it is only fair and proper, that they should communicate their opinious in writing.

Mr. Dir replied, that in the usual way, the committee had hold a conference with the War Department on the subject; and the bill of the Senate, was the bill of the War Department.

Mr. Sevien appealed that there was a lack of courtesy, in discrediting the frank and repeated statements of a member of a committee. The Senator from New York, had told them of the conference of the committee with the department, and this had been the invariable practice.

Mr. Hanney and believed that the Senator from New York, Mr. Hanney and the state of the conference of the committee with the department, and this had been the invariable practice.

Mr. Hannegan declared that the Senator from Arkan-

Mr. Hannean declared that the Senator from Arkansas hat misapprehended his views. There was no gentleman in the world in whose veracity he placed a higher estimate that that of the Senator from New York—But, said Mr. H. I look to something else. The day will come when we shall have to foot up the bill of these war expenses; and tremendons expenses they will turn out to be. And when the people shall ask to knew the causes of these expenditures, and why they were made, I wish to tarn to the records. I want to take the responsibility that belongs to me, but I want the President to take the responsibility which belongs to him. Therefore, he was anxious that in appropriations made by Executive authority, that such authority should be communicated in writing, so that it might stand on record with the action of the Senate.

Mr. Westert explained that that was the only point niented in writing, so that it might stand on record with the action of the Senate.

Mr. Westcort explained that that was the only point between the Senator from New York and himself, the absence of a written authority for this requisition of the administration. He concurred entirely in the views of the Senator from Indiana.

Some other remarks passed between Messrs Westcort and Diss, of an explanatory character, when Mr. Sevies came up to the resede. It was necessary that the committee should have recourse to the War Department. The Presidest knew nothing of military afficies. The War Department, or the major general who was kept nere for that purpose, were they who alvised in supon such subjects.

Mr. Darros referred to Gen. Scott's late correspondence with the Department, to show that he was opposed to these two additional migadiers. Gen. Scott had had nothing to do with it.

Alf. Sevier—Well, what is he here for then, sir? Mr.

Air. SEVIER-Well, what is he here for then, sir ? Mc. S exhonerated General Scott from recommending this increase, and said it must have come from the War Department.

Mr. Diegarses defended his colleague in having pursued the uniform practice of the committees of the body in their communications with the Executive Departments.

Ments. Mr. Housron was next proceeding in behalf of the re ommendations of the Military commuttee, when [Mr. Paisr amounced and delivered two messages from the President of the United States.]

Mr. Housrow proceeded to show the necessity of two additional Major Generals and four Brigadiers. There were to each division of an army one Major General and two Brigadiers. There were now concentrating upon Mexico a force of 10,000 men—or there would soon be than number in the field, equal to ten brigades or five divisions. One Major General and two Brigadier Generele would therefore be insufficient. The administration correctly have the noncepties of the case, and it was advisable to have a sufficiency of officers in any emergency, in order to prevent quarrels and muting among the under officers for the vacancies which would otherwise remain to be filled by officers of a lower grade.

Mr. Day for thought that the Senator from Texas had overdone his estimate; and that one Major General was sufficient for the Mexican division of the army. He was pleased with the remarks upon this subject of Senators on the other side, asking the written authority for this increase

The Senate bill provided for two extra Major Generals and four additional Brigadiers to the regular army—the amendment of the House reduces the number of each one half. The question was upon agreeing to this amendment. Carried, 26 to 21.

The murder of Wm. M. Aieredith, at Independence, Mo, turns out, as I predicted it would, to have been caused by woman. Although he had been but a few days at the place, it seems that he had contrived to get into a difficulty on this favorite theme, for "woman" was the only subject that ever occupied his attention for an hours at a time. The fact now comes out that Dr Harper was jealous of him and killed him, on the suspicion, whether well-founded or not is not known, that an unlawful intimacy saxied between his wise and the deceased. Harper has, however, been committed for trial on the charge of murder in the first degree.

There seems to be quite a mania that has taken possersion of the American generals lately. Firstly, here is our Major General Stawart, who has written himself down an ass in his recent difficulty with Colonel Hughes. There is General Worth who made an ass of himself by resigning within sight of the bristling cannon of the enemy—whilst General Stott has also made an ass of himself by trifling with his good destiny. General Gaines has like was shown himself to be patriotically mail; and General Gaines has plut his foot politically into a man-trap by talking too much in the Seante. PERSONAL EXPLANTION—PAY OF VOLUNTERS.

Mr. Sawner, by leave, rose to a personal explanation.
The gentleman from Founsylvania (vir. Stewart) in his printed speech, recently delivered, had published to the world that but eight democrats voted for, and five whigs voted against the proposition in increase the pay of volunteers to ten dollars a month. Now, such is not the fact—there were on the passage of the bill containing the proposition sixty-three democrats and torty-four whigs in favor of it. An ile asked the gentleman, as an honest man, to take back the remark.

Mr. Streman (trising)—Not a word. I am happy the gentleman introduced the subject.

The Spramer.—Does the gentleman desire to make a personal explanation?—(rice of 'agreed," 'agreed.")

Mr. Streman —Every word in my speech is true [sail nothing about the pussage of the bill, but a different matter situgether. I allude to the vote on the Senate amendment straking out ten dollars a month and retaining seven. I am in favor of increasing the pay of volunteers to ten dollars a month, and giving them a hundred and sixty acres of land. And I make the motion sow to suspend the rules, and call for the year and nays that I may bring in a bill for that purpose.

He was a hand on board the canal schooner Stephen Flannigan, and was engaged in hauling the main sheet aft, when the rope gave way and they both fell backward overboard. The captain was able to climb up the side of the vessel, but Buck remained struggling in the water unable to reach the vessel. Seeing this, a lad of fourteen leaped into the water and sustained Buck until the captain lowered the small boat to rescue them Just as the boat reached the spot the boy exclaimed that Buck had let go, and on getting in he found that the drowning man had caught hold of his boot and pulling it off had gone to the bottom. The captain had in the first confusion, called out to a younger boy to let go the anchor, and in doing this a coil of the chain twisted around his leg and dragged him to the hawsehole. Strange to relate, when extricated his leg was uninjured and he was able to walk about as usual.

The Lynchburg Procedure age—" Great complaint has been made of the destruction of the wheat crop by the Hessian fly, which we know has been considerable. But we believe, from a recent trip to the country, that the crop will be almost entirely destroyed by the rust. The rye is already destroyed, and the May wheat, we hear, is so much affected that it will be destroyed; and unless there is a change in the weather in a few days, to a dry and cool breeze, the whole of the late crop will be destroyed."

The Richmond Times of the 11th inst. says—"We have a letter from Charlotte saying that the harvest of the early wheat crop was just coming on, that the injury from the fly had been wonderfully overcome, and that the rust had not yet appeared.

arising from an impure state of the blood, or habit of the system.

We have received, within the last four years, at our different generics, more than five thousand certificates of cures performed, searly one half of which were of cases that have been pronounced incurable. We have the testimonials of physicians, clergymen and statesmen, extolling its virtues—A great number of physicians of New York and Brooklyn prescribe it to their patients with perfect success and satisfaction. We will refer to these physicians with pleasure—The columns of a newspaper will not allow us the opportunity of presenting but a few cases, to which we invite attention.

Hear Mr. Seth Terry, one of the oldest and most respectible lawyers in Hartford, Comn. The following is an extract of letter received from him:—

Dr. Townsend—I have used one bottle of your Sarasparilla, and find it is excellent in its effects upon a chronic rheumation pain to which I am studyer, from a singry cocasioned several years ago in a public stage. Please send me two bottles to the care of Dr. Seymon. I have conversed with two of our principal physicians, and recommended your Sarasparilla.

Thomas P. James, of Hoboten, infisimantory rheumatism, ancles much swollen, was unable to walk without crutches—used three bottles, and i advised him to use it; he done so with perfect success, and uses no sars. What is most singular in these two cases is, the families used this Saraparilla, and all escaped the disease, from a variety of other cases that have been reported, we believe that by cleansing the blood with this batract, it renders the person safe against this or the eryspelas, which diseases are very prevalent and fatal at the present time in all of the arge cities.

Dr. Townsend's Saraparilla is a sovereign and speedy cure for inciprent consumption, barrenness, lucorring, or whiten, obstructed or difficult menatruation, incontinence of turne, or involuntary discharge thereof, and for the general prostration of the system, no matter whether the result of inherent cause or causes, produced by irregularity, illness or accident, and the burnan frame. Fersons, all washness and lassitude before taking it, at once become robust and full of energy under its influence. It immediately counteracts the nevel essees of the female frame, which is the great cause of barrenness.

lessness of the female frame, which is the great cause of barrenness.

It will not be expected of us, in cases of so delicate a nature, to exhibit certificates of cures performed, but we can assure the efficited, that hundreds of cases have been reported to us. Several cases, when families have been without children, after using a few bottles of this invaluable medicine, have been bleased with healthy offspring.

Dr. Townsend—Ally wife being greatly distressed by weakness and general debility, and suffering continually by pain and a sensation of bearing down, falling of the womb, and with other difficulties, and having known cases where your medicine has effected great cures, and also bearing it recommended for such diseases as I have described, lobtained a bottle of your Extract of Sarsaperilla, and followed the directions you gave me; in a short period it removed her complaints and restored her health. Being grateful for the beneuis she received, I take pleasure in thus acknowledging it, and recommend it to the public.

Heping I may be of some service to 7 on, who have been so much to me, and to others who may be saffering as I have been. I felt it a duty to send you the following account of the singular efficacy of your Barsaparilla in my case. I had been very much out of health for the last two years; about ans mouths since several physicians pronounced my discess the spinal domplaint, since which time I have suffered more than I can describe. About four mouths ago, my back and shoulders became deformed, and the joints were drawn out of their places, and I suffered togetly day and aight. One of my shoulders was forced full two inches lower than the other, and every joint in my back was affected. I continued to get worse, although my friends record to every means in their power to arrest it, but without success. Only shout one smonth since I communicate Liking your Sarasparilla, and have now regulard my former appearance and usual health. I am fully aware that this account is as singular as to appear incredible, and I have requested some friends to add aline at the bottom for the benefit of any one who may be disposed to doubt the correctness of the same mean.

Yours, with great serves, Entern MRS. A. SNOW,
